EGA Agroindustrial

EGA Agroindustrial is a Peruvian company that grows, packs and exports fresh pomegranates. They are the first ever grower and exporter of this product in the Peruvian southern region of Tacna, close to the border with Chile.

They produce the Wonderful variety and have already shipped their first 8 containers to the EU in 2022. Their project has a positive impact on several families in Tacna – a region with limited income opportunities for the local population – as well as on the overall development of the agroindustry in the Peruvian south.

The geography and climate of the Tacna region contribute to a unique red color of EGA Agroindustrial's pomegranates, which is more intense than the average fruit from Peru. 100% of their exports are packed in their own packing house, which started operations in March 2023. Close proximity to the Chilean port of Arica allows for easy logistics.
